YEARS OF THE PARTY

This year, we're celebrating 70 years of the party and thousands of lives bettered by the Tupperware Opportunity.

Janie is crowned Queen of Jubilee

It was a surprise and an honor to be crowned Queen of Jubilee! Tupperware is so good at rewarding Consultants, and I appreciate everything—from the weekly awards, to the luggage, trips and cars, and especially the recognition we receive at Jubilee for our efforts. I will always treasure the experience.

The key to my success is following the advice of my upline—my Directors Janelle Elliot (also my daughter!) and Stephanie Meester, and my Business Leader, Kirstin Jones. Each one of them is very successful, and they all have different strengths. They're experts, and I really appreciate their willingness to share what they've learned through their many years of experience and paving the way for newer Consultants like me. We're better together.

In addition to local Tupperware friends whom I see at meetings and events, I have relatives and friends in other parts of the U.S. who are Consultants on my Unstoppable team. Sharing Tupperware news and ideas with one another not only helps our business, but also gives us that personal connection that we all need but often don't make enough time for.

It's a definite bonus to meet our friendship needs at the same time as our financial needs. After forming friendships long distance, when I met some of my very special team members face-to-face at Jubilee, I cried tears of joy.

The reasons why others should say "yes" to the Opportunity are as varied as the fascinating people in this business. For me, working toward paying off our home and preparing for retirement someday gives us peace of mind. After being in nonprofit work most of our lives, my husband said that we would never be able to afford to retire. Now with Tupperware's flexible and unlimited opportunities, that impossibility has become a possibility.
